Hello,

I'm Meghan, but my family calls me MeMe.

I am truly grateful that you're here. I can only imagine how many emotions you may be carrying as you look through these pages, and I would never assume to understand exactly what this feels like. What I hope you feel throughout this book is kindness, respect, and a sense of calm. These pages share only a small glimpse of my life, but they reflect what matters most to me, family, connection, laughter, and creating a home that feels safe and loving.

I am deeply excited about becoming a mother someday, and honored that you are spending time here as you think about what is best for you and your baby. Thank you again for reading my story. I am wishing you peace and clarity as you continue forward on your journey.

becoming me

My story looks a little different as a single, hopeful adoptive mom, and it has been influenced by the people and experiences that mean the most to me. Some of the most meaningful chapters of my life include becoming an aunt and instantly falling in love with all of my nieces and nephews, building a career in schools that has brought me so much purpose, buying my grandparents' home, and surrounding myself with a strong network of friends and family who shape who I am today.

I'm ready and excited to enter the next phase of my life – the joys of raising a child! I've wanted to be a mommy my whole life and it is thrilling to finally start this journey.

my heart for adoption

I have felt called to adoption for as long as I can remember.

Becoming a mom has always been one of my greatest hopes, and over the years I realized that adoption was the path that felt right for me. My life is filled with love, support, and a close community of family and friends, and I am ready to share all of that with a child. I am grateful that my journey has led me here.

Even more, I am grateful that you're taking a moment to learn a little about me as you think about what is best for you and your baby. Thank you for considering me for such a meaningful part of your story.

more about me!

I find joy in quiet mornings with coffee, weekend adventures with my nieces and nephews, family dinners, and creating a home that feels cozy and steady.

I am naturally warm, calm, and patient, and I try to bring comfort and joy to the people around me. I work as a Board Certified Behavior Analyst in schools, which has strengthened my compassion and deepened my understanding of children and their needs.

The people who know me best often say that nurturing comes naturally to me. They describe me as dependable, gentle, fun, and the person who always shows up when someone needs support. They believe I will be a steady and loving mother, and they cannot wait to welcome your baby into a circle of people who will celebrate them, support them, and love them from the very beginning.

A FEW OF MY FAVORITE THINGS:

TIME WITH MY NIECES AND NEPHEWS • TRAVELING AND EXPLORING NEW PLACES • WORKING OUT AND STAYING ACTIVE • SUMMER DAYS AND BEING OUTSIDE • WALKS AROUND MY NEIGHBORHOOD AND HIKING IN THE MOUNTAINS • HOLIDAY TRADITIONS WITH MY FAMILY • READING A GOOD THRILLER • TRYING NEW RESTAURANTS WITH FRIENDS • REALITY TELEVISION • CONCERTS WITH FRIENDS AND FAMILY

Home

sweet home

My home is a cozy, welcoming space in a quiet, friendly neighborhood, and it holds a special place in my heart.

It once belonged to my grandparents and is where my mom grew up. It has been the backdrop for hundreds of gatherings, holidays, and everyday moments that became treasured memories. I feel lucky to live here now and continue the traditions that have been passed down through my family. It is a three-bedroom home filled with natural light, soft colors, and a warmth that only comes from generations of love. There is space ready for a nursery, shelves of books and toys, and the laughter of a little one.

One of the things I love most about my neighborhood is how peaceful and safe it feels.

Neighbors wave from their porches, people walk their dogs in the evenings, and kids ride their bikes down the street. Many neighbors watched me grow up, and this community is filled with stability, kindness, and connection. My dog is also an important part of my home. He is gentle, patient, and loving with children, especially my nieces and nephews. He brings joy and comfort to my everyday life, and I know he will be a sweet and steady presence when a baby joins my family.

I live in a small, simple town where life feels familiar in the best way.

I am surrounded by family and friends I have known my whole life, and there is something meaningful about raising a child in a place where people show up for one another. We gather often for dinners, birthdays, and family events that keep our relationships strong. Our community has quiet streets, friendly neighbors, and parks where kids play.

I am also very involved in our local schools, which has connected me to many wonderful families, teachers, and children. This is one of the reasons I feel confident that this is a wonderful place to raise a child. And even though my town is peaceful and small, I am only about an hour from larger cities with museums, restaurants, and fun places to explore. It is the perfect mix of comfort and adventure, and I am excited to share both with a child.

meet my dog

One of the most special parts of my home is my dog, Reuben! He is gentle, patient, and incredibly loving, especially with children. He adores my nieces and nephews and is happiest when he is curled up next to someone or following us around the house. He brings so much comfort, joy, and calm to my daily routine, and his sweet personality is a big part of why my home feels so warm and inviting.

I know Reuben will be a gentle, steady, and protective presence when a baby joins my family. He is loyal and tenderhearted, and I look forward to the loving bond he will build with a child.

my family

I am so blessed by my family and feel lucky to live close to most of them. We spend a lot of time together for dinners, celebrations, holidays, and the simple moments that matter just as much. I grew up in a big, loving family where my siblings and cousins were my first best friends, and that closeness continues today. Some of my happiest memories come from growing up with them.

I come from a family that believes in showing up for each other, and that sense of connection has shaped who I am. My parents have been married for 38 years, and my siblings, nieces, nephews, aunts, uncles, and 36 cousins are a huge part of my world.

My family is one of my greatest blessings, and they are eager to welcome a child.

My extended family is warm, supportive, funny, and deeply loyal, and they are so excited to welcome your baby with open arms. I can already picture your baby growing up surrounded by familiar faces, meaningful traditions, and people who will celebrate and support them every step of the way.

ten fun facts

I come from a family with 36 cousins, so your baby will never run out of people who love them.

My home used to be my grandparents' house and has hosted hundreds of gatherings over the years.

I am a strong advocate for the autism and neurodivergent community.

I saw Taylor Swift on her Era's Tour on my birthday and it was amazing.

I lived in Denver for several years - the mountains still feel like home.

I founded a business to support other behavior analysts in schools.

I love holiday traditions and go all out for Christmas, especially making hand dipped chocolates with my mom and sisters.

I am a co-chair for my local hospital's foundation, helping raise funds for women's health, dementia care, and children's mental health services.

My grandmother taught me to crochet, and I still make baby blankets and stuffed animals for the kids in my life.

I am always the first person on the dance floor, and my go to move is the finger guns.

my friends

I am lucky to have friends who have been part of my life for many years. Some I met in childhood, others in college or through work, and together they feel like family. They are the people I laugh with, travel with, celebrate with, and lean on during both the easy and hard moments. They have been supportive through my adoption journey and have encouraged me every step of the way.

Many of my friends have children of their own, and your baby will grow up with a mix of caring adults and playful kids ready to welcome them. This group is loyal, joyful, diverse, and full of heart, and I look forward to sharing their love and companionship with a child.

Travel has shaped who I am, and I look forward to sharing that joy with a child.

Travel has always brought me happiness, whether exploring new places or returning to familiar ones. I used to live in Denver, and the mountains still feel like a second home. I grew up visiting the beach, another place that brings me peace and joy. Some of my favorite memories are from a mother daughter trip to New York!

I plan to continue traveling once I bring a baby home, in ways that feel cozy, safe, and fun for them. I can already picture beach days, quiet mornings in the mountains, and little adventures as they grow. Traveling has shaped my life, and I am excited to share those meaningful moments with a child.

promises to you

- I promise that your child will know that they are loved. Not just from me, but also from my family, my friends, my community, and you.
- I promise to advocate for your child in every space they enter. At school, in the doctor's office, and out in the world, I will be their voice, their protector, their cheerleader, and their steady support.
- I promise to give your child every opportunity to explore who they are. They will grow up in a home filled with joy, encouragement, and the freedom to try new things, discover their passions, and be themselves.
- I promise to honor and celebrate you. I will share your story and your love with your child in a way that feels natural and respectful, so they always know where they came from and the strength behind your decision.
